Earl Bamber managed to scale the summit of long distance racing in record time. After winning the Porsche Motorsport International Cup Scholarship, one of the most extensive and sustained youth development concepts in the automotive world, he went on to clinch the title in the Porsche Mobil 1 Supercup in 2014 as well as in the Porsche Carrera Cup Asia for the second time since 2013. The New Zealander also notched up an impressive achievement at his race debut, securing second place at Petit Le Mans in the USA. These successes earned him a contract as a works driver and thanks to his convincing performance at tests, he quickly climbed the next step on the ladder and into the LMP1 programme, clinching the 17th overall victory for Porsche at the 2015 Le Mans 24 Hours.

Earl Bamber contests the IMSA WeatherTech Sports Car Championship with the Porsche

911 RSR run by the Porsche North America team, as well as the GTE Pro class of the 24 Hours of Le Mans for the Porsche Manthey team. At the Nürburgring 24-hour race and at the Macau Grand Prix, he drives a 911 GT3 R.
